Charu Shankar

Charu Shankar has been a Technical Training Specialist with SAS since 2007. Before SAS, Charu worked at UNESCO, Rotman School of Management and several others. She started her working career as a programmer, transitioned to teaching computer languages, business communication and English Language skills. At SAS, Charu teaches the SAS programming language, SQL, SAS Enterprise guide and Business Intelligence classes. She enjoys teaching by engaging her students with logic, visuals and analogies to spark critical reasoning. Skilled in customer needs analysis, Charu frequently interviews clients to understand their needs to recommend the right SAS training to help meet their needs. SAS has also helped her develop her writing skills and she is now a frequent blogger for the SAS Training Post. In her spare time she is a singer, yoga teacher and a food blogger. She is committed to helping build a center for special needs kids in this project.
